YOU DON'T KNOW

What a comfort it is to have ready at hand a remedy that never fails to relieve Constipation, and that, without pain or discomfort, and almost immediately cures every symptom of Dyspepsia. Such a remedy is found in Simmons Liver Regulator—not a sweetened compound to nauseate, or an intoxicating beverage to cultivate an alcoholic appetite, but a medicine pleasant to the taste, and perfectly harmless when given to the smallest child. S. L. R. never disappoints. It possesses the virtues and perfections of a reliable remedy of the kind endorsed by eminent physicians.

"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to those who receive annually in reference to your valuable medicine. I consider Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine on the market. I have prescribed it with excellent results."—W. F. PARK, M. D., Tracy City, Tenn.

EYEGLASSES IN PATAGONIA.

How a Pair of Spectacles Opened New Wonders to a Native Patagonian.

The author of "Idle Days in Patagonia" was listening out of doors to a conversation between two men, both past middle life and of about the same age, one an educated Englishman wearing spectacles, the other a native Patagonian. All at once the native fixed his eyes on the spectacles worn by the other, and burst into a laugh cried out:

"Why do you always wear those eye hiding glasses straddled across your nose? Are they supposed to make a man look handsome or wiser than other folks, or do you really imagine that you can see better because of them?"

To this mocking speech the other good humoredly replied that he had worn glasses for 20 years; that they not only enabled him to see much better than he could without them, but had preserved his sight from further decadence.

"How do you know that your own eyesight has not degenerated with time?" he continued. "You may try my glasses if you like. Our years are the same; it is just possible that our eyes may be in the same condition."

The gaucho laughed. The idea was too ridiculous. "What, see better with these things?" he asked, and he took them gingerly in his hand, held them up to examine them and finally put them on his nose.

He looked at one man, then at another; then he stared all round him with an expression of utter astonishment and in the end burst into loud exclamations of delight. Strange to say, the glasses exactly suited his vision, which, unknown to him, had probably been decaying for years.

"What is this I see?" he shouted. "What makes the trees look so green? They were never so green before! And so distinct? I can count their leaves."

It was hard to convince him that objects had once looked as distinct and leaves as green to his native sight as they did now through those magical glasses. But in the end he was convinced, and then he wanted to keep the spectacles. He pulled out his money to pay for them there and then and was much put out when their owner insisted on having them back.

However, a pair was got for him shortly afterward, and with these on his nose he galloped about the country, exhibiting them to all his neighbors and boasting of their marvellous power.

An Excursion Ticket For a Corpse.

An excursion from Birmingham to Montgomery was run the other day. A negro man appeared at the ticket office in the depot and purchased a ticket for himself. Then he said to the ticket agent:

"Boss, I wan' nother round trip excursion ticket for a corpse."

The agent opened his eyes in astonishment. An excursion ticket for corpse was something new to him, even with his varied experience. The negro explained: "You see, boss, my brudder died yesterday, and I want to take de corpse down to Montgomery and let the family view de 'nains, and den bring 'em back to Birmingham and bury 'em. Dis will be a heap cheaper den for de family to cum up here."

The agent saw at once that this was a great stroke of economy and enterprise on the part of the negro. There were probably a dozen members of the family, and tickets for them to Birmingham and board while here would be quite expensive. The corpse could get the benefit of excursion rates to Montgomery and would pay no board while there. Thus the negro subserved the ends of economy and preserved his respect for the grief of the family at the same time.—Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald.

Women's Dress in Hot Climates.

For the dress of women in hot climates nothing is comparable to the Sandwich Island haloku and mumu. The mumu is an ordinary shift with a deep flounce at the bottom, and the haloku is nothing more than the garment known as a "Mother Hubbard."

As to corsets—but why mention abominations? Those who cannot do without them had better stay home.

I have been assured by more than one physician that there is an absolute difference in the breathing of men and women, abdominal breathing pertaining to men only.

In not one instance could I detect among the hundreds of island women I have seen any lack of abdominal breathing. The conclusion is inevitable.—Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Mask We All Wear.

There was a long intermission between the waltz and the schottische, and a little band of society nobodies stood in a group exchanging confidences. Said one of the sterner sex to a female vis-a-vis, "Miss, you are very pretty."

"You would say so even if you did not think so," responded the girl, with a smirk.

"I know I would," candidly said the other, "and you would think so if I didn't say so." And the corset sounded for the schottische.—Boston Courier.

The Birds of Patagonia.

If the birds of this region do not excel those of other lands in sweetness, compass and variety—and I am not sure that they do not—for constancy in singing they indubitably carry the palm. In the spring and early summer their notes are incessant, and the choir is then led by that incomparable melodist, the white handed mocking bird, a summer visitor. Even in the coldest months of winter—June and July—when the sun shines the hoarse crooning of the spotted columba, resembling that of the wood pigeon of Europe, and the softer, more sigh-like lamentations of the Zenaida maculata, so replete with wild pathos, are heard from the leafless willows fringing the river.

The scarlet breasted or military starling sings on the coldest days and during the most boisterous weather, nor can the rainiest sky cheat the gray finches, Dicaea minor, of their morning and evening hymns, sung by many individuals in joyous concert. The common mocking bird is still more indefatigable, and sheltering himself from the cold blast continues till after dark warbling out snatches of song from his inexhaustible repertory, his own music being apparently as necessary as food and air to his existence.—"Idle Days in Patagonia."

Improvements in Searchlights.

Searchlights have become indispensable to steamers of all classes and in military and naval operations. By their use objects miles away can be revealed and illuminated in the darkest nights, and their powerful beams of light can be thrown in any direction. One of the earliest applications of the searchlight in marine work was to vessels passing through the Suez canal. Formerly the passage could be made only in daylight and was very tedious and costly. Now the electric light is at the service of every ship as it enters the canal, and the journey is in nearly every case pursued uninterruptedly.

A most excellent innovation has been made by the Suez canal authorities, who have pronounced that it shall be obligatory on all vessels passing through the canal by night to employ an apparatus for dividing the light of the projector into two divergent rays. Approaching vessels may by this means travel right up to each other without their respective helmsmen being blinded. The diverging apparatus which is to be used has been devised by one of the agents of the company.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Within One of It.

One day the chodja prayed aloud that God would send him a thousand paisters. "A full thousand! I could not take less!" said he in concluding his prayer. A rich man who had heard the chodja praying thought he would try his consistency, and next day placed a bag containing 999 paisters in his way. The chodja found the bag and counted the money, but as he was turning to carry it home the tempter stepped from behind a wall and cried: "Yesterday in your prayer you said you could not take less than a thousand paisters, and I wished to show you your inconsistency. Leave that money; it is mine!" "Oh, no," said the chodja, "this money God sent me in answer to my prayer, and I shall take it home, trusting that he who sent me 999 paisters will some time surely send me the one outstanding paister! There is no inconsistency, but plenty of faith in me!" and he walked away, well satisfied, carrying the bag.—Good Words.

Sleeping in Church.

"Some men preach," said Sydney Smith, "as if they thought sin is to be taken out of a man as Eve was taken out of Adam, by casting him into a profound slumber." So at any rate thought not South, who, preaching one day at Whitehall, observed King Charles II and several of his attendants asleep. Stooping down, he cried out to one of the delinquents, "My lord, I am sorry to interrupt you, but if you snore so loud you will wake the king."

His majesty thereupon awoke, and turning to his neighbor remarked with his accustomed good nature, "This man must be made a bishop; remind me on the next vacancy." Latimer speaks of a woman who suffered from insomnia, and who, all sorceries having failed, was taken to the church of St. Thomas of Acres, when she fell at once into a refreshing slumber.—Temple Bar.

The Associates of Cats.

Cats have been associated with superstitions more than any other animal unless it be the hen, whose entrails used to be carefully inspected by Roman senators in order to decide grave matters of state. The reason why cats and superstition have gone hand in hand is that during the middle ages, when these animals had fallen greatly from the high estimation in which they were held by the Egyptians, it was commonly reported, and in a contemptuous manner, that the only persons who would associate with them were elderly unmarried ladies. And about the same time, it being supposed that most very elderly ladies were witches, the cats were regarded as their satellites, partaking of their evil qualities.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

An Explosion of Naphtha Vapor.

In a machine shop a locomotive boiler was being repaired. The steam dome had been removed, so as to allow a man to get inside the boiler, and about a pint of benzine had been applied to some of the interior bolts and screws, apparently for the purpose of loosening them so that they could be removed. The men at work on the boiler went off to their dinner, and on their return one of them got inside to remove the bolts, while a man standing outside handed him a light.

The moment the light came in contact with the air from the boiler, slightly impregnated with this was the naphtha vapor, a tremendous explosion occurred. The man outside who was handling the light was instantly killed, and another, who was standing on top of the boiler, was thrown to the ground and badly bruised, while the man inside was blown through the dome opening, 14 inches in diameter, and 30 feet upward, where he struck the iron roof truss, lodging there so firmly that he was pulled out by the traveling crane, but in such a condition that he died hours afterward. It is well known that a mixture of a small quantity of naphtha vapor with a large quantity of air may be explosive, but no attempt seems to have been made to determine the limit of explosive proportions.—American Architect.

The Trump of Fame.

The dignity of the trumpet is proved by its association with certain famous personifications. Thus one never sees fame, honor or victory without a trumpet. For that matter, a great many mortals are never seen without an accompaniment of the same kind, which they blow with might and main in order to catch the attention of their fellows. The trumpet in this sense is almost indispensable; the bigger your trumpet, the louder your fanfare, the greater will be your success.

Politicians, priests, authors, actors, professors, agitators, philanthropists, all blowing their loudest in order to blow themselves into popularity or place or pelf or power! There are men and women with wares to sell—their consciences, their pens, their talents—who, by persistent trumpeting get them disposed of at their own price. The wares may be sadly damaged, but the loud advertisement confuses and overcomes the buyer. Other vendors, with better stuff to sell, get never a bid because they cannot handle their trumpets or are too scrupulous to make use of them. Sometimes, it is true, the staple is of such excellent quality that the people crowd around to buy it even without a flourish of trumpets.—All the Year Round.

Milkweed Fiber.

J. L. Richie of Auburn paid a visit to The Bee office to exhibit several strands of material somewhat resembling flax, but which is much finer than either that product or ramie. The material shown by Mr. Richie grows abundantly in Placer county, and, in fact, can be found in great quantities all over California. It is nothing more than the common, despised milkweed, and after a number of experiments Mr. Richie came to the conclusion that he had discovered an article which would make cloth as fine as silk. He brought down a large quantity of the "weed" and turned it over to a local mercantile house, which sent it to a mill in Oakland to make an experiment. Mr. Richie feels so confident in the ultimate success of the venture and that elegant cloth will be made milkweed that he is trying to find some way to get a "lead pipe cinch" on his discovery. As the weed is so common, it would be a hard matter to prevent any one from gathering it and converting its fibers into rope or cloth.—Sacramento Bee.

Pure Maple Sugar.

Many purchasers in cities think that maple sugar is adulterated in proportion to its light color. This is a mistake. I have heard of instances where sugar has been returned on the supposition that it was adulterated because it was so light colored. The dark color of the sugar and sirup is taken in evidence of its purity, while actually the reverse is true—that is, the color is caused by impurities, natural or artificial. The darker sugar is the more pronounced in its taste, and our city people think this is the genuine maple flavor, but really this taste is wholly due to impurities, natural perhaps, but something besides sugar. Pure sugar is without smell or flavor, being simply sweet.—Garden and Forest.

They Were "Balloon" Sleaves.

Scene—Deck of a Bangor boat just before starting from Boston. Characters—Will's son, of an inquiring turn of mind, and his patient "pawpa."

Time—The moment when the Lynn and Boston ferryboat comes out of the slip.

Son—Pawpa, what kind of a boat is that?

Papa—That, my son, is a ferryboat. Son (after gazing long and earnestly at the retreating boat and with eyes almost starting out of his head)—A—an—and, pawpa, are those the fairies on it?—New York Herald.

GLEN ELLEN.

Grave teams are on the go and the cellars in this vicinity are kept busy.

Jas. H. Albertson of Sonoma was in town last Wednesday on legal business.

Quite a number of men in this vicinity have obtained employment at the Home for Feeble Minded.

John Kearney, the irresistible was around last Wednesday squaring up accounts against the road district.

J. B. Small of Sonoma is repairing fences and making other improvements on his property in this place.

C. H. Brunning has gone to Petaluma to be present as a delegate to the meeting of the State Grange in that city.

A social hop will be given at the Dunbar school house next Friday evening. Quite a number will undoubtedly attend.

Great credit is due the employees at the Home for Feeble Minded for the good work done last week in fighting the forest fire south of this place.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, Oct. 7th, 1893.

COUNTY ITEMS.

One Chinaman was killed and two others wounded in a Chinese row at Sebastopol last Monday night.

Walter Rodgers, the boy who escaped from the Home for Feeble Minded, one day last week, has been found in San Rafael.

Wm. Amesbury has a 20-acre prune orchard near Santa Rosa that will net $3,500 this season.

Tennasah Ottono, an Indian girl residing in Healdsburg, who saved Jesse Lake from drowning about a month ago, will be presented with a life-saving medal by Uncle Sam.

Dried prunes are selling in Healdsburg at four and one-half cents per pound, or $90 per ton. A considerable amount has been shipped to Chicago and San Francisco by dryers in that section. Many are holding back in the hope of a raise in prices.

Work on the new Healdsburg bridge spanning Russian River was commenced Monday morning and the old structure is being rapidly torn down. The contract calls for the completion of the structure by November 25th, but it is feared rain may cause delay.

The total assessment of the railroads in the county is $1,712,169, divided as follows: San Francisco & North Pacific, $1,289,737; Northern, $245,586; North Pacific Coast, $153,846; Gualala River, $25,000. The total value of railway property within the limits of incorporated cities and towns as apportioned by the Supervisors is $64,835, divided as follows: San Francisco & North Pacific, $57,972; Northern, $6,863. The total value of railroad property outside of incorporated cities and towns is $1,647,334, divided as follows: San Francisco & North Pacific, $1,229,765; Northern, $268,723; North Pacific Coast, $153,846; Gualala River, $25,000.

The San Francisco "Weekly Post" is brightening up under its new proprietorship. It is now one of the largest, newest, cleanest and newest weeklies published on the Pacific Coast. It not only contains all the news of the week, but carries an unusual amount of choice literature for family reading, and its editorial columns are filled with able articles upon the commercial, financial and political situations of the day. A suggestion—Keep your eye on the Weekly Post.

You will seldom need a doctor if you have Simmons' Liver Regulator handy.

Albert G. Burnett Advanced.

Hon. Albert G. Burnett, the well-known and popular attorney, has been appointed to an important official position. He has been named as Assistant United States District Attorney for this district. This is an office of much responsibility and will require the spending of most of his time at San Francisco while holding the place. No man in Sonoma county has more friends than Mr. Burnett and all will be pleased with his preference, which we are glad to be able to state does not take him away from here permanently. He will still continue to reside in Santa Rosa and to practice law in our courts.—Santa Rosa Republican.

Stricken Down with Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. GENTLEMEN: I feel it my duty, as well as a pleasure, to publish, unolicited, to the world the benefit received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies. I was stricken down with heart disease from 90 to 140 beats per minute, a choking or burning sensation in the wind pipe, oppression of the chest, and a general feeling of weakness and debility. The arteries in my neck would throb violently, the throbbing of my heart could be heard across a large room and would shake my whole body. I was so nervous that I could not hold my hand steady. I have seen under the treatment of eminent physicians, and have taken gallons of Patent Medicines without the least benefit. A friend recommended your remedies. I was cured by Dr. Miles' remedies. I have taken three bottles of your New Heart Cure and two bottles of your Nervine. My pulse is normal, I have no more violent throbbing of the heart, I am a well man, I sincerely recommend every one who is afflicted with Heart Disease to take Dr. Miles' Remedies. Dr. L. L. Carner. Sold on a Positive Guarantee. OR MONEY RETURNED.

Order to Show Cause.

In the Superior Court of Sonoma county, State of California, Department One, Probate.

In the matter of the Estate of JAMES MCGINTY, deceased.

Order to show cause why order of sale of Real Estate should not be made.

DANIEL FRIDGER, ADMINISTRATOR of the Estate of James McGinty, deceased, having filed his petition heretofore duly verified, praying for an order of sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth, and it appearing to the satisfaction of said Court from said petition that it is necessary to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate belonging to said decedent for the purposes and reasons set forth in said petition.

It is therefore ordered by said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said decedent appear before said Superior Court on Monday, the 23rd Day of October, 1893, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the Court Room of Department One, in the City of Santa Rosa, County of Sonoma, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Daniel Fridger, administrator of said estate, to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent as may be necessary, at either private or public sale, as to the said administrator shall appear for the best interest of the estate of said decedent.

And that a copy of this order be published once each week for the period of four successive weeks in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE, a newspaper printed and published weekly in said County of Sonoma, State of California.

Dated: Santa Rosa, Sept. 20th, 1893.

A Western editor says that a man got himself into trouble by marrying two wives. A Western editor replies that a good many have done the same thing by marrying one. A Northern editor says that a number of his acquaintances found trouble enough in hardly promising to marry and going no farther. A Southern editor says that a friend of his was bothered enough when he was simply found in company with another man's wife.

THE FOREST FIRE.

Narrow Escape of Farm Houses and the Town of Agua Caliente.

The fire, or series of fires, that raged in the mountains northwest of town the greater part of last week, were got under control last Sunday and Monday by volunteer fire-fighters. One of the fires started near Hooker Falls and after burning in an easterly direction for several days the wind changed from west to north on Saturday night and started the flames down Hooker creek toward the valley. In the path of the leaping flames were the residences and outbuildings of Mrs. E. S. Read and C. D. Haven, on the north side of the county road, near Agua Caliente. These were barely saved by the gallant exertions of the fire-fighters.

On the other side of the road, which the flames leaped with lightning-like rapidity, were the town of Agua Caliente and the farm of Frank Wattress, which narrowly escaped destruction. Here the fire-fighters made a desperate stand and with wet sacks and back-firing arrested the further progress of the flames.

Miles upon miles of fencing were destroyed together with thousands of cords of stove wood and timber.

These forest fires have become very frequent of late years, and all have been caused by the carelessness of inexperienced parties engaged in clearing land by the use of fire.

An Interesting Trespass Case.

Simon Lays, in the employ of Nicolini Bros., who own a mountain ranch near the Hooker Branch, a few miles north of town, was arrested last Saturday on complaint of H. Thies, who charged him with misdemeanor in forcing his way through a closed gateway and trespassing on his farm, which is near that of the Nicolini Bros.

The trial of Lays, the offending trespasser, took place Tuesday before Judge Cheney and the following jurors: Messrs. H. C. Maniel, Sam Agnew, Jo. Lewis, Jacob Meyer, R. B. Lyon, Dr. T. Nufer, C. H. Wise, Jos. Dowdall, F. L. Clark, D. Calloway, Sol Carriger and H. J. Frederickson.

The testimony went to show that complainant had given permission to the Nicolini Bros. to haul three or four loads of grapes over the private road which passes through and beyond his farm. That after one load had been hauled over the road he suddenly changed his mind, fastened the gate up and forbade their passing through the same. The defendant Lays, who was hauling the grapes for the Nicolini's, upon returning for a second load, removed the barbed wire which obstructed his way, and after passing through with his wagon and horses replaced the wire as it had been before and proceeded on his way. Hence his arrest. The testimony also showed that for some reason which was not made plain that an unneighborly feeling had suddenly sprung up between the parties.

The jury after listening to the testimony, which would have confused anybody but a Philadelphia lawyer, were unable to agree and were discharged, standing six to six.

A retrial of the case, together with that of Fernando Nicolini, one of the brothers, who is also charged by the complaining witness with assisting his employee in removing and replacing the barbed wire fence, will come up before Judge Cheney and a jury next Monday.

It is understood that jurors Manuel, Agnew, Lewis, Calloway, Lyon and Mayer voted for acquittal, and jurors Clark, Dowdall, Carriger, Frederickson, Wise and Nufer for conviction.

Sudden Death.

Mrs. Marie De Bernardi, wife of G. De Bernardi, the stone mason, died in this place yesterday morning after an illness of only a few days. The deceased was taken sick last Monday with vomiting and purging and suffered much pain for several days. The usual remedies were prescribed, which seemed to relieve her. Thursday evening she was again taken violently ill and so remained through the night until about one o'clock yesterday morning, when she passed away, leaving a husband and three children, one a babe four months old, to mourn her loss. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence.

Trial of a Firebug.

Chas. Taylor, a tramp, who deliberately set fire in broad daylight to L. M. Johannsen's barn near this place, a few months ago, will come up for trial before Judge Crawford and a jury in Santa Rosa next Tuesday. There is no question of his guilt, as he admitted firing the barn when placed under arrest. Taylor's defense will no doubt be insanity.

Divorce Granted.

S. Schocken, a prominent merchant and a member of the Board of Trustees of this city, was granted a divorce from his wife, Dora Schocken, last Tuesday by Judge Dougherty. The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion. The parties had been married many years and when the divorce proceedings were instituted a few months ago it was a great surprise to their Sonoma friends.

THE CITY TRUSTEES.

Street Improvements—Appointment of a New Sexton for Mountain Cemetery.

The City Trustees met in regular monthly session last Wednesday evening. All the Trustees were present and for the first time in several months the meeting was both harmonious and business-like.

Trustee Litzius, the Von Bismarck of the Board, beamed down kindly on his fellow members of the Sonoma Reichstag, the while a smile playing around the corners of his mouth that lit up his countenance like unto the electric lights with which he proposed to light the town some moons ago. Once only did his countenance change and that was when, as one of the Printing Committee, he scowled fiercely at a $9 printing bill presented by the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE, which almost caused the editor to go into convulsions for fear he would make a motion to lay it over. However, the dreadful ordeal was passed safely over and the bill allowed, together with several others.

After passing upon the bills of last month the Trustees got down to business.

The bridge on Spain street east of the Plaza was ordered repaired immediately.

The sum of $20 was appropriated for a culvert on Spain street, between First and Second streets East.

John Revie was appointed Sexton of Mountain Cemetery vice Victor Jansen.

The sum of $100 was appropriated for graveling streets in need of repairs.

It was ordered that the north side of Spain street from Laux's corner east 300 feet be curbed.

The ditch on the south side of Spain street opposite the property of H. Weyl was ordered cleaned.

A curbing was ordered to be constructed on the west side of First street West from the Union Livery stable opposite the Monahan place.

One hundred dollars was appropriated for repairing First street West, north of railway crossing, leading to Mountain Cemetery.

The south side of Napa street from the grounds of J. B. Small to the new bridge on Second street East was ordered curbed.

Twenty-five dollars was appropriated for leveling the approach to the new bridge at the Duhring crossing.

The Cemetery Committee were ordered to confer with the City Clerk at once regarding an ordinance to regulate the management of Mountain Cemetery and the public receiving vault.

The following bills were allowed:

L. H. Green, lumber, $22.40

Jno. Ludeman, labor, 4.85

G. W. Sparks, salary, 15.00

L. Litzius, Jr., labor, 7.50

P. Bacalla, labor, 3.00

H. H. Granice printing, 9.00

S. Cucci, refunding poll taxes, 4.00

F. Breitenbach rebate of taxes, 44.00

Total, $79.97

Expensive Walnuts.

Four Swiss plead guilty in Justice Cheney's Court last Saturday to a charge of petty larceny, and were fined $5 each. The arrest was made on complaint of B. F. Whitten, manager of the Miller farm, who charged the men with gathering walnuts off trees overhanging the sidewalk in front of the Miller premises in the eastern suburbs of town. It appears the men after they had commenced to gather the nuts were ordered to desist by a Chinese employee. This they refused to do, as they considered the walnuts public property because the branches of the trees happened to extend far out over the sidewalk. It cost them $20 to find out their mistake.

Sonoma Valley Olive Oil Receives a Medal.

Col. Geo. F. Hooper has been awarded a World's Fair Medal for his exhibit of olive oil at the Chicago Exposition made from olives grown on Sobre Vista farm near this place. This will be good news to the farmers of Sonoma Valley, many of whom have olive groves that are coming into bearing. Col. Hooper has spared neither time nor money of the past ten years in proving to the world that this valley is the natural home of the olive, and to him more than to any other man is due the credit of demonstrating the superiority of California olive oil over the article of commerce manufactured in other places and other climes.

A grape catsup is almost as essential a preparation as tomato catsup. Boil the grapes without removing the skins, mashing them a little to extract the juice. Let them boil for ten minutes. Then strain them through a colander coarse enough to retain the seeds as well as the skins. Add to the pulp of ten pounds of grapes one pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful of cloves, two of ground allspice and two of cinnamon and a scant half teaspoonful of the best Cayenne pepper. Let this mixture boil down until it begins to grow thick. It will take an hour and a half or two hours. When it has thickened well, bottle it and seal it up.

If celery were eaten freely sufferers from rheumatism would be comparatively few. It is a mistaken idea that cold and damp produce the disease—they simply develop it. Acid blood is the primary and sustaining cause. If celery is eaten largely an alkaline blood is the result and where this exists there can be neither rheumatism nor gout. It should be eaten cooked.

STRICTLY ONE PRICE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 7, 1893.

How is This?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months; one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month, for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are, Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. Order, registered letter or express. Address H. STAFFORD, PUBLISHER, Stafford's Magazine, P. O. Box 2264, New York, N. Y.

THE CORNCOB'S MANY USES.

Here Are Scores of Things For Which the Corncob May Come In Handy. Corncocks are useful to make pipes for the men, as stoppers to bottles that have mislaid their corks, to crowd into the bungholes of the cider barrel, to throw at the hens when they scratch the young onions, to curl hair on, to hold up windows, to ferule the children with, to grease the griddle in place of the time honored half of a turnip, to wind basting ravelings for future use, to stop up any kind of a chink, to drive away red ants and to found a fortune.

The last two statements may seem to challenge remark, but they can bear the light of the best follow over in a candle mold. One steps on corncocks when entering the pantry and joggles the cream into the pickle dish. On inquiry, one finds that red ants don't like corncocks. I don't wonder. Neither do I. As for the fortune, a man who once lived not 10 miles from Springfield laid the foundations for a fortune so large that, though he died 12 years ago, the lawyers have not yet done fighting over his will, solely by carrying loads of corncocks hither and yon and selling them for fabulous prices.

The children find both fun and sorrow in corncocks. They make pretty dolls, to be sure, but if the masters of the inquisition could have been provided corncocks sufficient to allow one for the mouth of each prisoner they would have abandoned all other modes of torture. It is a most enlightening sight to enter a "delectable" school and see a row of little culprits standing behind the stove, a corncob in each mouth and the silent tears of agony rolling down the chubby cheeks. A corncob emulge is said to give ham and bacon a most perfect and delicate flavor.

A corncob put on a pole, saturated with kerosene and set blazing will destroy any worms' nest into which it is thrust during the early morning of June's rare days. A corncob slightly greased and set in a candlestick has been known to burn half an hour and to save bringing in the lantern from the barn in order to light the children to bed. Without the grease it would be very dry, burn slowly and perfume the air in a way that showed itself an excellent substitute for joss sticks. The ancient nurse in the rural districts uses them to purify the atmosphere in the sickroom and considers that, together with woolen rags, they are far ahead of any disinfectant favored by the medical fraternity.

The country damsel preparing for the social fray has been known to blacken her eyebrows with a burnt corncob. When children object too strenuously to having their teeth scoured with soot from the teakettle, an indulgent parent may make a compromise on the black powder from a burnt corncob. In many places the jetty stuff is supposed even to have medicinal power, and Miranda swallows a quantity in order to have a sweet breath—ah, telltale plan!—when Ferdinand comes a-wooing. You can black boots with corncocks. You can shell corn by rubbing corn on grain. A corncob makes an excellent scrubbing brush. A woman with a soul for ingenuity once hung out a large wash with clothespins manufactured from cleft corncocks.—Housekeeper.

Birthdays and Anniversaries.
A correspondent writes: "Would you please decide the following for me: A bets B that he celebrates his twenty-first birthday. B says he is wrong; that it was the anniversary of his birth. Which do you think is right?"

Let A win every time. B thought he would play a smart old trick, which could succeed only if A's proposition was mistaken according to its meaning or was indefensible for accuracy. A's statement, assuming he was right in the matter of date, was accurate otherwise. If he was born on the 10th day of June, the 10th day of June is his birthday for the purposes of his disputed assertion, just as precisely as if he had said his birthday was Tuesday or any other day of the week. A statement that is unassailably accurate from one point of view will fail to win a bet only when it can possibly be deceptive, and of that, in this case, there was no possibility. A will see as many birthdays as he sees years.—New York Sun.

The American Family Robinson.
Johnnie Robinson's boy baby was born in Michigan. What strange and widely differing birthplaces the Robinson family have had, to be sure. The famous great-grandfather of the boy baby, John Robinson, Sr., was born in New York state; Jack Robinson, his grandfather, first saw light in Alabama; his great-grandmother was born in Louisiana; his grand-mother was a native of South Carolina, while his father and mother were both born in Ohio. Of the Robinson family proper, as it might be termed, no two were born in the same state, but came into the world just wherever the great circus happened to be at the time. Gil was born in Virginia, Charley in Georgia, Jack in Alabama, as has been stated, Frank in Kentucky, and so on, each one of the children claiming a different state of the Union as his or her birthplace.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

WHERE INDIANS WON'T VENTURE.

The Superstitious Mountains of Arizona and Their Myths.

"Among the natural wonders of the great southwest are the Superstitious mountains, which loom up red and roseate from the arid desert to the east of the Salt river valley," said Ben Rogers, an old cattleman. "These mountains are so curious that the Indians would have nothing to do with them. In consequence they are full of deer, ibex, bear and other wild game. It is tough work getting up them, however, and because of this they are a natural fortress for wild game. Rising out of the level surface of the desert like the pyramids of Egypt are the Superstitious mountains.

"They reach a total height from the valley of from 3,000 to 3,500 feet, and probably their height above the sea is from 4,000 to 5,000 feet. There are no foothills leading up to them whatever. On one side is a valley as level as a billiard table, and on the other these lofty mountains rise. There are many theories for this, but no certain solution.

"On the crest of this unique range and in full view in the rarefied atmosphere for an immense distance from the plain are hundreds of queer figures, representing men in all attitudes. They represent ball throwers, outlooks, mere viewers of the country round about, men recumbent and contemplative, others starting on a foot race and in every conceivable posture and position. They are not real flesh and blood men, however—nothing but stone syenite—yet nothing can convince the Indians and some white men that they are not genuine. They say they are real mortals turned to stone, petrified by the peculiar condition of the air on the mountains.

"Now, you can induce an Indian to brave all the Gila monsters and rattlesnakes of the plain, but you can't induce him to try and scale that perpendicular range. He is satisfied to let alone the ancient abodes of the mysterious pygmies and the crests where the petrified men are, even though the mountains about are full of ibex and other game. It is a fine field for the naturalist and the antiquarian, for if they do not believe in the petrified men they will still learn much of the pygmy cliff dwellers and the game that roams un molested near at hand."—San Francisco Examiner.

Scotch Way of Swearing Witnesses.

After studying the section in a recent act of parliament entitling witnesses to claim to be sworn in Scotch fashion with the uplifted right hand instead of by kissing the book, the Rev. W. J. Jenkins of South Otterham wrote for information concerning the Scotch manner of taking the oath to the secretary for Scotland. It is hardly the business of Sir George Trevelyan to answer such questions, but he has good naturally sent by the permanent under secretary of his department the terms of the Scotch judicial oath, which are, "I swear by almighty God, and as I shall answer to God at the great day of judgment, that I will tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, in so far as I know or as the same shall be asked of me."

This says Sir Colin Scott Moncrieff, is the formula used by a witness when he is put upon his oath. He stands and with his right hand held up repeats these words after the judge or commissioner empowered to administer the oath.—London News.

Eggs of the Bob White.

Perhaps no bird in America, certainly no other in Michigan, equals the common bob white or quail in the number of eggs it sets upon. This species not infrequently lays 18 eggs, and even more are found in one nest, but I can assure the readers that with any other shaped eggs the bob white could never succeed as a successful settler. I met a friend of mine with collections at hand compare a set of 20 eggs of the quail with 20 eggs of equal dimensions in longer and shorter diameter of any other species and observe which lot occupies the smaller space. We may say, for illustration, that the bob white's egg is triangular and fits in as no other egg, to my knowledge, can.—Dr. Morris Gibbs in Science.

"August Flower"

Billousness, "I have been afflicted with biliousness and constipation, for fifteen years; first one and then another preparation was suggested, but none relieved me. I tried a friend's recommendation of August Flower. It took it according to directions and its effects were wonderful, relieving me of those disagreeable stomach pains which I had been troubled with so long. Words cannot describe the admiration in which I hold your August Flower—it has given me a new lease of life, which before was a burden. Such a medicine is a benediction to humanity, and its good qualities and wonderful merits Jesse Barker, Printer, Humboldt, Kansas, G. G. GREEN, Sole Man for Woodbury, N.J.

Gladstone has A clear Head

WHY? Because he follows these rules: "Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open." You can have a clear head and live to be ninety if you do the same thing. When the bowels fail to move during the day take on retiring two Smith's Small Blue Beans. Their action is so mild that you are not aware of it. All day your mind will be clear and cool.
